Birdhouse Man

Ron Rudolph created an enduring tribute to his late wife

Ron Rudolph couldn't sleep.

It was 1 a.m. on a January night, days after his beloved wife, Pat, had died at Our Lady of Peace Hospice. The funeral services were over, and the family members who'd been staying at his Corcoran house had all returned to their respective homes.

The place felt achingly empty.

Ron started pacing. The 63-year-old carpenter headed out to his workshop, bracing against the late-night cold, and looked around. If he could find something constructive to do with his hands, perhaps it could still his reeling mind.

"I was going crazy," he said. "Everything was going through my head. Should I sell the house? What am I going to do with my life?"

He began scrounging up scraps of cedar and cutting pieces. He had made a bluebird birdhouse before, which was perched nearby, and he eyed it now, cutting walls and a roof to match. They came together nicely and – poof – suddenly he had created a little home.

He had something to show for himself. It paid a quiet tribute to Pat, whose favorite bird was the bluebird.

Before long Ron had made a dozen birdhouses. He felt productive, grounded and connected to his wife.

The next time Ron spoke to his daughter Kristy, he mentioned the birdhouses and asked her help: He didn't know what to do with them.

She created a posting on Facebook Marketplace and felt compelled to share the backstory to the handmade houses.

"I wanted to make sure people knew it wasn't just a birdhouse," Kristy said. "It was a birdhouse that was full of a whole bunch of love and emotion and loss, something tangible you could see that would breed new life."

Ron Rudolph builds a birdhouse in his shop to honor his late wife, Pat, who died at Our Lady of Peace.

Shortly later she called her dad and said, "I need 10 more."

The birdhouses had sold rapidly, and there were requests for more.

Ron set to work. And word began to spread.

Someone contacted the Lonsdale News Review, who published an article about Ron's new project. Next the Buffalo newspaper caught wind of it followed by the Star Tribune. That article led to coverage on WCCO and, remarkably, caught the attention of Mark Zuckerberg, who has expressed a passion for supporting the charitable projects and entrepreneurial ventures on Marketplace. A team from Facebook came out in August to film Ron's birdhouses to feature in an upcoming documentary that will be played at its offices across the globe.

To date, Ron has built more than 1,500 birdhouses. Their creation provided a channel for Ron's grief and developed into a four-generation affair, involving Ron's dad, four children and grandchildren, each of whom play a role in the construction and sales process.

Something much bigger was at work, the family discovered. The birdhouses became an emblem of hope for other grieving families, a wooden monument to deceased loved ones and a shelter for new life. “It was amazing,” Ron said. “So many people have been touched by it.”

The family was fielding 150 orders every weekend so they began designating community pick-up days for local customers to get their orders. “So many people wanted to buy the houses and talk, sharing their stories of loss,” Kristy said. “It helps to make the world feel a little less big. We’re all in this together.”

Ron received a call from a man whose wife, like Pat, had beat breast cancer but then faced a brain tumor. He wanted to visit. Ron consulted with Debbie Swanson, feeling ill prepared to offer counseling given how raw his own grief still felt.

“Maybe you don’t have to talk,” she told him. “Just listen.”

The widower had seen the WCCO story, in which Ron talked about working through his grief by tapping into a talent. He was an artist who hadn’t used his colored pencils in 14 years. Ron had inspired him to pick them up again. When he arrived at Ron’s home, he brought a sketchbook and revealed page after page of beautiful illustrations: ducks, muskies, detailed renditions of the natural world. The last page: a rendition of two bluebirds on a birdhouse, which he had drawn for Ron. The two men visited more than three hours.

Ron’s daughter Kristy Boike helped sell his first few birdhouses and has continued to play an instrumental role in his cedar ministry.

In a way, Ron muses, the birdhouses are a symbol of Our Lady: a safe place to land, a shelter from the storm.

He vividly recalls the relief he felt when he learned Pat had been admitted to Our Lady. “I felt like I unzipped this lead jacket,” he said. Trying to care for her at home had become difficult and costly. “All her spiritual needs and comfort needs were met,” Ron said. “Everything was absolutely wonderful. I couldn’t have asked for anything more.”

Being able to attend Mass and visit with the sisters meant a lot to Pat, who treasured her Catholic faith.

Her family gathered at Our Lady on Thanksgiving and again on Christmas Day to celebrate together. Kristy’s son Noah took some of his first steps in the hospice halls.

“It was a peaceful feeling knowing she was where she needed to be and she had so many people who loved her and cared for her there,” Kristy said.

Working with various staff members at all hours confirmed to Ron how valuable every staff member is. In total, she spent almost six weeks at Our Lady until her Jan. 4 death.

The entire family says they feel indebted to Our Lady and are grateful to donate a portion of birdhouse sales to Our Lady. Pat’s brothers, Mark and Todd Weller, and their wives, Mary and Marge, hosted a July benefit for Our Lady in Pat’s name, raising more than $7,000.

Our Lady was instrumental in helping Ron cope with Pat’s death, connecting him to a support group of widows and widowers, he said. (Learn more about Our Lady’s bereavement program on page 5.)

Ron and his family vow to stay involved with Our Lady. They’re planning to host a birdhouse-making event in 2019 as a form of grief support.

“Making the birdhouses are a tangible, tactile way to work through grief,” Kristy said. “That’s been the emphasis since the beginning: using your hands and your talents to work through it all – and, in the process, share with others. It’s easy to feel isolated and alone when you’re in this kind of circumstance, but we have learned the power of community. Everybody is yearning to be connected.”

■ Photography honors beloved mother

When compassion meets creativity the results can be exceptionally beautiful. This was the case when Gene Ziemann, son of former Our Lady patient Luverne Ziemann, and nature photographer was introduced to Jean and Lee Markell, longtime supporters of Our Lady of Peace, and owners of a custom-framing shop.

Thanks to the generosity of these artists, custom-framed original photos of Minnesota landscapes and wildlife will soon be featured throughout the home.

For Gene, the photographs make a special tribute to his mom. "I wanted to share my photography as a way of saying thank you for the care my mother received when she was a patient," He said. "That care made her feel happy and lifted her spirits even at a time when she knew she was passing. My hope is to share some of the beauty that I see in the wild and express it in such a way that it brings that same uplifting feeling to other patients and their families at a time of great challenge in their lives."

Everyone touched by Our Lady of Peace has some kind of talent to share, Gene added. "I believe we all have a gift. If we are fortunate enough to find out what that gift is, we should share it with as many people as we can."

■ Our Lady represented at spiritual-care training in D.C.

Viktor Frankl wrote that "Man is not destroyed by suffering; he is destroyed by suffering without meaning." Spirituality helps give meaning to suffering and helps people find hope in the midst of despair. In the midst of suffering, a skillful, caring, and compassionate healthcare professional can be an important anchor in which the patient can find solace and the strength to move through distress to peace and acceptance.

Fifty pairs of clinicians and chaplains from around the world attended the very first Global Train-the-Trainer Interprofessional Spiritual Care Education Curriculum (ISPEC) on July 10-12 at George Washington University in Washington, DC. Two Our Lady of Peace staffers – Bereavement Coordinator Amy Cotter and Deb Lane, RN – were among the 100 participants selected from 12 different countries.

Betty's bucket list

For lifelong Minnesota Twins fan Betty McClenahan, 92, a surprise outing to Target Field was a dream come true. Betty suffers from vascular dementia, a condition that has slowly robbed her of her memory, but a trip to the ballpark orchestrated by her Our Lady of Peace social worker, Kelly Pietrzak, gave her a chance to revisit the past and recapture the joy of game days back when she and her family would road-trip from Iowa to watch the Twins play at Met Stadium in Bloomington.

When working with hospice patients, Kelly looks for ways to add meaning to the end of their lives and often asks the question, "What would you like to do with the time you have left?"

For Betty, who had never seen her favorite team's new stadium, a trip to Target Field was on the list.

Through special arrangements made by the Twins organization, Betty and her daughter, Candace McClenahan were able to get a behind-the-scenes tour that included stops at home plate, the history and memorabilia galleries, the newly opened Bat & Barrel and even a spin through the locker room.

"I'm so grateful, not just for the experience, but for the fact that Mom was excited and highly aware that day," said Candace. "As we've seen the disease progress, we've become even more grateful to have had a time like that with her."

Special thanks to: Scott Patet from Allegiance Transportation who chauffeured Betty in style; the care staff at Heart to Home who got her ready for her special day; Kent Erdahl and Jason Steussy of KARE 11 for telling her story; and to Forrest Brandt and the Minnesota Twins organization for opening your doors, and hearts. We are grateful!

Betty and her daughter, Candace, check out the view from home plate on the opening day of the 2018 season.

Amy Cotter: Our Lady's new bereavement coordinator

*Amy Cotter,
Bereavement
Coordinator for Our Lady of Peace*

The transition from director of spiritual care to bereavement coordinator feels seamless to Amy Cotter, who has been at Our Lady of Peace for three years.

As she takes the helm of a dynamic bereavement program that served more than 1,100 people in the past year, Amy recognizes the common ground from her previous work in caring for patients' spirituality.

"The common thread for me is that grief is a deeply spiritual process," she said. "Grief and the work of mourning is a process of adjusting to a new reality. You have to develop new aspects of yourself and new ways of making meaning in your life. And that is a broad definition of spirituality: how we find and make meaning in our life."

Our Lady's bereavement program is designed to usher grieving friends and family from the overwhelming pain of death to the beginnings of a new season. "Grief cracks you open and allows you to grow," she said. "It's a process of being patient with ourselves, understanding our needs and practicing self-compassion. It's also a time to develop a new relationship with your loved one. It doesn't go away. It remains – and that requires some re-establishing of what it's going to be like for the survivor."

Amy is quick to credit her predecessor, Debbie Swanson, for developing such an excellent bereavement program. "She has built a really strong, vibrant program that she has passed on to me."

Our Lady's bereavement services will remain the same, including: support groups held throughout the year; special events such as the teddy-bear making workshop (stay tuned for a winter gathering); a one-time gathering in November called Coping with the Holidays; various community resources; and one-on-one visits and phone calls.

To learn more or access one of these services, call Our Lady of Peace at 651-789-5031 or email Amy Cotter at amyc@ourladyofpeacemn.org.

"We learned so much during our time at the training, including how to identify spiritual distress, what is a compassionate presence, communicating about spiritual issues, doing a spiritual assessment and gaining insights into ethics and professional self-care and development," Deb said. "I look forward to sharing what we learned with the staff at Our Lady of Peace."

Amy Cotter said she is eager to build on the experience.

"The faculty from the ISPEC program will continue to assist us in the dissemination of the ISPEC information and tools to our staff and other health care practitioners in the area by contacting us at 6- and 12-month intervals," she said. "We will also have access to an online version of the entire course complete with videos and additional resource materials."

Both Amy and Deb said they feel honored to have been chosen to participate in the inaugural education session of this group of spiritual care practitioners who are leading the integration of spiritual care into healthcare practices.

■ Archdiocese recognizes Joe Stanislav, faith-based leader

Congratulations are in order to Joe Stanislav, who was recently honored with a prestigious award given to a select group of local business leaders. "Leading with Faith" awards are conferred annually through The Catholic Spirit, the official newspaper of the Archdiocese of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Joe was among a small group of Catholics recognized for outstanding faith-based leadership in the profit and non-profit worlds.

Archbishop Bernard Hebda presented the awards at an August luncheon in St. Paul.

"For Joe Stanislav, being the president of Our Lady of Peace home and hospice care in St. Paul requires a deep devotion to compassionate caregiving," The Catholic Spirit wrote. "In caring for individuals at the end of their lives, Stanislav integrates mission into his work and daily life by modeling optimism and understanding. For Stanislav, 'leading with faith' means being an example of God's healing work to those around him."

■ The blanket girls

Donor Profile

When Lauren Johnson was in seventh grade, her father died. Four years later, this heartbreaking experience led her to Our Lady of Peace because she wanted to help people who were facing the same situation.

"My dad had cancer," Lauren explained. "Sometimes hospice buildings can seem like scary places. I thought if I could give patients some little thing of their own to keep that felt like home, it might be easier for them."

Avery MacIntosh had similar memories from her experience when her grandfather was in hospice care. Together, the friends decided to take on a project that would bring comfort to hospice patients in a simple way.

They made tie blankets, taking special care to choose material that could appeal to female or male patients. At Our Lady of Peace, the first blanket recipient, Milen "Willie" Sefcik, chose a fish-patterned fleece.

"I call it my Walleye Blanket," Willie said. "It was sure sweet of the girls to do this."

Friends of Our Lady Luncheon draws large crowd

More than 400 people gathered for the 8th annual Our Lady of Peace Luncheon held May 17 at the Envision Catering Center (formerly Prom Center) in Oakdale.

The event focused on and fund-raised for the Bereavement Program, which is an integral part of the mission of Our Lady of Peace. In the past year, that program alone served more than 1,100 individuals who mourned the loss of a loved one, including both people directly affiliated with our organization and those who were connected through our community outreach efforts.

Jim Miller, chairperson of the board, began the luncheon program with a few words of welcome followed by a blessing by then-Spiritual Care Director Amy Cotter. President Joe Stanislav then spoke about continuing the mission of providing end-of-life care and the need for funding to remain sustainable. Special music was provided by Anna Ek, a seventh-grade student at Nativity of Our Lord in St. Paul.

The fundraiser was a success, generating $90,000. Matching gifts were generously provided by the family of Emily Horner and Eagle Mouldings and the family of Jay "Andy" Foster.

We welcome all of you to join us on Thursday, May 16 for the 2019 Friends of Our Lady Luncheon. If anyone is willing to provide a 2019 matching gift or would like to be a table host, please contact Lisa Sweeney at 651-789-6826 or lisas@ourladyofpeacemn.org. Each dollar donated furthers our mission of providing care at no cost to those in need at the end of life.

■ Thank you!

These generous sponsors funded the annual Our Lady of Peace Luncheon, allowing every donation to directly benefit Our Lady of Peace Home.

■ Celebration of Life draws 400 to Our Lady's chapel

More than 400 people attended the Celebration of Life open house held on Sunday, Dec. 7, 2017, where they received special commemorative ornaments to place on the holiday trees. Two candlelight services in the chapel featured the names of patients cared for by Our Lady of Peace staff.

"We were so grateful to have an opportunity to honor the memory of our dad during this special time of the year," one family member said. "It felt like he was right there with us. What a beautiful and meaningful celebration." A mom in attendance echoed that sentiment. "I was able to see many staff and talk to the nurses who took care of my daughter – so heartfelt."

Harp music provided by 12 year-old Finn Coleman provided a peaceful backdrop for the afternoon as hundreds of family and friends gathered for this meaningful event, which also served as a fundraiser to collect donations for Our Lady of Peace's hospice mission.

When we say, Our Lady of Peace is a Catholic healthcare organization, what do we mean?

Our Lady traces its roots back more than 900 years to St. Dominic of Osma and St. Francis of Assisi, founders of religious orders known today as the Dominicans and the Franciscans.

Inspired by these two great saints, Margaret Flesch founded an order of Franciscan sisters and Rose Hawthorne Lathrop founded an order of Dominican sisters, both in the 19th century. These orders created the two healthcare organizations that merged to form Our Lady of Peace in 2009.

Though the sisters are no longer able to sponsor Our Lady of Peace, their legacy remains in the compassionate care provided both at Our Lady of Peace Home and at the homes of clients receiving home hospice or home-care services.

OLP maintains its Catholic identity by virtue of being a Private Juridic Person within the Archdiocese of St. Paul and Minneapolis. It has long been common for a congregation and diocese to come together to jointly operate certain institutions — nursing homes, for example. In such cases, establishing new diocesan church corporations known as “juridic persons” to assume canonical sponsorship of the institution was appropriate. Juridic persons, unlike moral persons, are creations of the law; they enable people to come together to perform a work or carry out a mission they would be unable to do on their own.

Although juridic persons are represented by individuals (board members, for example), they have perpetual existence. The entity that most resembles them in our secular society is the corporation. Private juridic persons function in their own name. Their goods are not considered ecclesiastical goods; their works are considered more the work of Catholics than Catholic works.

Another way OLP maintains its Catholic identity is through its membership in the Catholic Health Care Association of the United States, and as such, agrees to be bound by the Religious and Ethical Directives for Catholic Health Care Service approved by the United States Conference of Catholic Bishop.

This statement of Catholic identity from the Catholic Health Association really captures what Our Lady aspires to:

We are the people of Catholic healthcare, a ministry of the church continuing Jesus’ mission of love and healing today. As provider, employer, advocate, citizen — bringing together people of diverse faiths and backgrounds — our ministry is an enduring sign of healthcare rooted in our belief that every person is a treasure, every life a sacred gift, every human being a unity of body, mind and spirit.

We work to bring alive the Gospel vision of justice and peace. We answer God’s call to foster healing, act with compassion and promote wellness for all persons and communities, with special attention to our neighbors who are poor, underserved and most vulnerable. By our service, we strive to transform hurt into hope.

As the church’s ministry of healthcare, we commit to:

- Promote and Defend Human Dignity
- Attend to the Whole Person
- Care for Poor and Vulnerable Persons
- Promote the Common Good
- Act on Behalf of Justice
- Steward Resources
- Act in Communion with the Church

■ Jim Miller: New board of directors' chair

Jim Miller, Chair of the Board of Directors of Our Lady of Peace

I am honored to serve as the new chair of the board of directors of Our Lady of Peace. I follow Ed Martini, who retired in April after nine years on the board of directors, the last five as chair.

Joining me are fellow officers: Kim Webster, vice chair; Angie Swetland, secretary; and Mark Meyer, treasurer. Recent new additions to the board include Stephen Otto, Doug Bruce and Dennis Flaherty.

After a number of years of stable leadership, the board of directors is undergoing a significant transition. My service with this organization goes back almost 40 years and began with St. Mary's Home, a nursing home at the southern tip of Highland Park in Saint Paul. After several years of service on the board, I subsequently worked with St. Mary's Home on the acquisition of Riverview Highlands apartments and development of Highlands on Graham. More recently I represented the organization with the sale of these properties.

Our Lady of Peace presently operates the hospice at the intersection of Cleveland and St. Anthony in St. Paul, and community hospice, home health care and block nurse programs. A strategic planning committee led by Barb Blumer is reviewing our current activities and planning for our future.

Our Lady of Peace hospice was founded more than 77 years ago by the Dominican Sisters of Hawthorne. Today we continue their proud tradition of providing care, comfort and compassion to those in need – especially at the end of life – regardless of their social, religious or economic status. We have persisted all these years with the generous support of the community. Thank you.

■ Together we remember

Friends and family gathered in the Our Lady of Peace gardens on a beautiful September afternoon for a new event called "Together We Remember." This lovely memorial service gave people time to reflect, visit with Our Lady staff and honor their loved ones who have passed by creating a commemorative stone.

The event program featured internationally renowned grief specialist Ted Bowman, who spoke about the journey of grieving and the impact of loss.

Telling our stories, sustaining our mission

Lisa Sweeney, Director of Development

Our Lady of Peace may be a hospice, but it is a place of hope. Every day here I witness quiet acts of compassion and the power of community. I see the best of humanity.

I think of the countless patients whose final days were spent here, surrounded by love and treated with tender care.

I think of people like Kay Birosh, who stayed at Our Lady of Peace in 2013. At 91, the mother of six and lifelong Catholic was grateful to find respite at Our Lady.

"I couldn't have had anything better happen to me," she said.

She praised the attentive nursing staff and the access to Communion. Her children echoed her appreciation, expressing relief that she was treated so well.

I think of Dallas Sirany, whose beautiful daughter Dana got married at Our Lady of Grace in 2015 so he could witness the ceremony.

I think of the couples who renewed their wedding vows here and the newborn babies whose visits brought such joy.

This is such a special place, a place unlike any other. And it is all made possible thanks to your ongoing support.

As I work in planned giving at Our Lady of Peace, I am awed by the dedication of those who have been involved with Our Lady for many years.

When facing the end of life, we know that people in our community reach out to Our Lady of Peace because of our longstanding reputation for first-rate care from dedicated, compassionate health care professionals in a welcoming, peaceful environment.

We are proud of that reputation, and we hope you share in that sense of pride because without your financial support, Our Lady of Peace would not exist. Thank you for sustaining our mission!
