HOW THE LITTLE FREE HOSPICE ENDURED THE STORM

This is the story of a public health crisis that converged with an economic crisis and how a little hospice in St. Paul withstood the crosswinds. This is the story of Our Lady of Peace Home in 2020.

As increasingly dire information about the coronavirus emerged in early March, the staff of Our Lady of Peace rallied. It became clear that life was about to change in unimaginable ways. The pandemic cast Our Lady's mission in a new, more urgent light: "Called by God, Our Lady of Peace gently comforts and cares for those most in need near the end of their lives, wherever they call home, regardless of means."

Soon that comfort and care would involve Facetimeing quarantined relatives, managing a shortage of personal protective equipment and, in an unprecedented move, closing the hospice to outside visitors. The medical staff faced a formidable learning curve.

"Staff rose to the challenge on infection control," said Dr. Michael Pinchback, chief medical officer. "We all had the foundation of this knowledge prior to this, but this pandemic has made everyone employed here an expert."

From administrators to receptionists, the entire staff united in its effort to implement the best practices on infection control. It reinforced Our Lady's longstanding emphasis on cleanliness and hygiene. The size of the hospice and the dedication of the staff allow patients to receive a level of care that standard hospitals simply cannot deliver, said longtime nurse Frezgi Hiskias.

All the while, staff didn't merely operate in survival mode, Dr. Pinchback said. They looked ahead to recognize areas for long-term improvements. "Once we are on the other side of this, all the experience we've gained will make us better healthcare professionals. Additionally, we have expansion plans underway which will allow every patient to have a large private suite further making our infection practices state of the art."

Responding to COVID-19 has made Our Lady even better, Hiskias said, reminding staff of the need for "learning, always learning."

Volunteers came to the rescue when the short supply of PPE became a concern. Our Lady put out a query calling for donations, and soon, hundreds of handmade masks and gowns arrived. "It was like the miracle of the loaves and fish multiplying," said Director of Development Lisa Sweeney. "We were blown away."

"This allowed us to bridge the gap of PPE until we were able to procure more," Dr. Pinchback said. "Although we never fully depleted our essential supply, it was great to know we were supported by the community so much."

In an unprecedented move, Our Lady's administrators made the difficult decision to close the hospice to visitors. This was the hardest part, Hiskias said. "Dealing with family members and our new reality made it hard," he said.

HIGH-PRIORITY IMPROVEMENTS FOR OUR LADY OF PEACE

JOE STANISLAV AND JIM MILLER

We know many people are suffering from so-called “Covid fatigue.” However, Covid fatigue is not an option for health-care providers, and Our Lady of Peace is no exception. Our Lady of Peace continues to employ multiple tactics for minimizing the risk of Covid infection spread to patients, visitors and staff. Staff and visitor screening, shorter visiting hours and the use of personal protective equipment are examples. Many thanks to volunteers and staff who have worked diligently to employ these tactics to keep us all safe.

Though these immediate efforts at mitigation have preoccupied our thoughts the last several months, we have not forgotten our long-term needs. Foremost among these needs are improvements to the physical plant of Our Lady of Peace Home, some of which may minimize the spread of future infectious disease. We have identified four areas that we believe will have the greatest impact on improving Our Lady of Peace Home: replacing our current two-bed rooms entirely with private rooms, increasing our parking, improving our front entryway/lobby and creating more meeting and office space for our support groups and growing home-care mission.

Our highest priority is our patient rooms. Private rooms improve patient and family comfort and privacy but, just as importantly, private rooms lessen the risk of infection spread among patients and visitors. Early in the pandemic we recognized that unrelated persons sharing a room would make isolating the virus considerably more difficult. Allowing an unrestricted number of visitors at any time of day to these roommates seemed even more likely to spread Covid. Unfortunately, our only solution was to completely restrict visitors until we secured additional personal protective equipment and developed protocols to screen and isolate them. Even today, visiting is limited to two persons for one four-hour period per day and when death is imminent. We know with private rooms we could safely allow more visitors for longer periods.

Parking availability has long been a need for Our Lady of Peace Home. On-street parking supplements the 13 parking spots in our small lot but is inconvenient and hazardous during winter months. We are exploring options to increase the number and accessibility of parking spots for visitors, volunteers and staff.

The front entry to Our Lady of Peace Home lacks cover for patient and visitor drop-offs during wet or cold weather. A permanent canopy would solve this problem. Also, the lobby lacks waiting room space and welcoming appeal. Renovations to increase lobby space and comfort are being considered.

Lastly, Our Lady of Peace Home lacks adequate space for our Community Hospice staff and for the various support groups and educational offerings. We are exploring ways to incorporate more office and meeting space into a plan that creates private rooms.

Plans for all of these improvements will be scrutinized to include materials and functions that will take into consideration minimization of the spread of infectious diseases. We believe that addressing these needs will raise the quality of our physical space to the level of our excellent care and keep OLP a leader in end-of-life care for many years to come. Thank you for your continued support.

LIVE LIKE YOU WERE DYING

PATIENT PROFILE

Sitting comfortably in a recliner in his South St. Paul living room with his dog, Murphy, curled up at his feet, Dick Savard does not look like what most people imagine when they think of a hospice patient.

He's 76, a retired machinist, life-long resident of St. Paul and loyal member of Union Local #459. Early in 2019 he was diagnosed with cancer, but he looks fit, laughs easily and has a thick head of wavy white hair that draws frequent comparisons to Kenny Rogers. He understands death is the first thing people often think of when they hear the word hospice, but he is proof that the opposite is also true. Hospice is about making time for life – and that's exactly what Dick Savard is doing.

Shortly after the new year, symptoms that lingered stubbornly following a bout with double pneumonia landed Dick in the doctor's office. Testing led to the discovery of a tumor in his lungs and a cancer diagnosis. He underwent chemotherapy and radiation. The chemo was well tolerated, but the radiation treatment was brutal, and there was no possibility of a cure.

When given the option to continue treatment, Dick made the decision to stop. "My doc told me if I did five more months of treatment, I might get one more month," Dick said. "And I thought, 'Forget it. I'm done. I'm not going to go through that. I'm not going to lay in bed for five months being sick.' I feel so great now. If I can get whatever [time] it ends up being, this is going to be the way I feel when I go down. I feel like a million bucks."

Like many families, the Savards did not realize they could choose their own hospice provider and did not have to use the hospice program connected to their physician's group. When they learned it was their choice, they knew they wanted Our Lady of Peace where a family member had been cared for years ago in the residence when OLP still operated under the name Our Lady of Good Counsel. They were pleased to discover that Our Lady of Peace had a community hospice team that could care for Dick in his own home.

Looking back at the decision, Dick realizes it was a turning point. "The docs told me there was nothing else they could do – it was time for hospice, but it was the hospice people who said, 'You can do any darn thing you want!'"

With that philosophy as his guiding star, and his adult children, Lisa Dunham and Chrissy Antikainen, scrambling to attend to the details of each plan he latched onto, Dick officially declined further treatment, signed up for hospice and started to live.

In the following months as he set out to make the most of the time he had left, he was, in his daughter Lisa's words, "unstoppable." According to Lisa and Chrissy, their father approached cancer with his characteristic "the glass is half full" attitude.

"Dad wasn't afraid to die," Lissa said. "But he didn't like having to be taken care of and he didn't like being sick from chemo. So he did what he wanted to do: live life and not feel sick!"

He started playing cards several times a week, fixed up an old shed in the backyard with help from a neighbor, raced Go-Karts, took in an antiques show that featured steam engines and drove to Duluth on a whim to see the Blue Angels.

He reached out to people, including a surprise visit to a sister in Norfolk, Va., who he had not visited in almost 15 years.

“I didn’t even tell her I was coming,” Dick said. “I knocked on her door at nine in the morning, and she comes to the door and she’s got this look on her face, like ‘Who the heck are you?’ and I just said, ‘Is breakfast ready yet?’”

The siblings enjoyed five days together before Dick headed back to the Midwest and a new plan began to take shape.

In the early years of the Vietnam War (1961-1964), Dick served in the Navy as a Machinery Repairman Petty Officer Third Class and was stationed in New London, Conn., on a repair ship where he fixed submarines, including the crown jewel of the Naval fleet, the world’s first nuclear-powered sub: USS Nautilus (SSN-571).

“We had always talked about going back to see the USS Nautilus but never did it,” Chrissy said. “When the cancer came, I realized that we had to make the trip because I knew how much it meant to Dad. I was just afraid that once he got back on the sub, he would see it as taking his final step.”

Hoping to make that special wish come true, Dick’s family started making plans, and the Our Lady of Peace community hospice team stepped in to help.

“People often don’t realize that if they feel up to it, they can take trips while in Hospice care,” said Nancy Larson, Director of Community Hospice and Home Care for OLP. “We call it Travel Hospice. It’s a wonderful option. We set up contracts with hospice providers across the state, or country if needed, who can provide support along the way and at the destination. Our goal is to meet the needs of our patients and our families and if taking a trip to see a special person or place will feed a patient’s soul, we’re going to do whatever we can to make that happen.”

In September, Dick traveled to Groton, Conn., and saw the historic submarine for the first time in 55 years. He was treated to a VIP tour and was the guest of honor for a Veteran’s Ceremony at the Submarine Force Museum. It was the trip of a lifetime.

When asked about his experience with the community hospice care team from Our Lady of Peace, Dick is quick to answer. “It’s been absolutely fantastic. I’ve done more in the past six months than I’ve done in the past ten years.” He laughed and added, “Come on and join me!”

Even at the very end of life, hospice can open the door to living fully bringing with it dual gifts of meaningful experiences for patients and special memories for the loved ones they leave behind. When he became a hospice patient, it was not Dick Savard’s intention to also become a teacher, but looking at how he chose to die, it is impossible not to learn a powerful lesson about how to live.

In September 2019, when he was interviewed, Dick was looking forward to his next adventure: a mid-October tribute concert to rock n’ roll legends Roy Orbison and Buddy Holly. We are betting it didn’t take long for him to look up Roy and Buddy on the other side of the veil and talk them into playing a few tunes. Our thanks to Dick and his family for sharing his story. He is an inspiration.

Editor’s note: Shortly after his trip to visit the famous submarine, Dick Savard passed away with his daughters, Lisa and Chrissy, at his side on Oct. 4, 2019. Reflecting on their hospice experience, Lisa said, “When we were told we had choices and options besides my dad lying in a bed, it changed everything. Seeing him so happy made losing him less difficult.”

“I’ve done more in the past six months than I’ve done in the last ten years.”

CHARLIE'S TABLES

DONOR PROFILE

It wouldn't have come to pass if it weren't for the quarantine, that time when fathers and sons suddenly found themselves away from work and school, together in garages, tinkering with tools.

Good things followed.

When Dave Gillet started working remotely, the Mahtomedi father had more time on his hands, so he retreated to the garage. As he puttered away, his son Charlie, 10, asked to build something.

It stopped Gillet in his tracks. None of his kids had ever asked that before. He was all too happy to oblige.

The father and son talked about different options, and Charlie decided he would make a table to hold a drink while he played cornhole bags. Quarantine had provided extra time for bonfires and yard games too.

The father-son pair spent a Saturday in the garage making a table.

"It was so much fun," said Gillet, an account manager for Viking Electric. "I would ask Charlie how he wanted it, and he had to make the design choices, then I would explain what I considered the best method to achieve his design."

The 10-year-old got to use all sorts of tools – a table saw, a jigsaw, a drill press and an impact driver.

"At the end of the day, he had his table, and you could see how proud he was," said Gillet, who texted the photo to family members.

Their reply?

Not only were they impressed, they were interested. They wanted Charlie to make tables for them. "Charlie thought that was pretty cool," Gillet recalled.

Around the same time, the family was making plans to again participate in Our Lady of Peace's annual luncheon – this time, virtually. Gillet tossed out an idea: what if he sold the tables and donated his proceeds to Our Lady?

Charlie was game.

He set to work diligently, table after table, and ended up making 15. In total he made $600, which he gave in full to Our Lady. It was a valuable lesson in hard work, to experience what it felt like to put in that many hours and to see the outcome.

Dad, meanwhile, is relieved his son didn't keep the money. "Charlie is lucky in the fact that he has had a complete childhood. He is still naive to some of the world he is growing up in. For him, having $5 to go to DQ and get a blizzard is all he cares about. I really don't know what he would do with $600, and I'm grateful he hasn't had to face the more grown-up challenges that some of his peers are forced to deal with."

WHEN THE ANGELS ENTER THE ROOM

DONOR PROFILE

George Turner never expected to lose his sister Irene so soon. But giving back to the place that comforted Irene in her final days helps him remain connected to her.

Death had already marked his life in profound ways. Turner, a property and casualty insurance broker from Eagan, said goodbye to his grandmother at Our Lady of Peace decades ago. Later his father died there. But he did not expect his vivacious sister Irene Christy, a mom of three, to die from breast and ovarian cancer at 48.

Thankfully, the hospice provided the same level of care the Turner family had come to know and expect.

“My family had firsthand experience with the incredible gift that OLP is,” he said. “The care is fabulous but the compassion is so heartfelt. They really understand what you’re going through and they turn an incredibly difficult time into an amazing experience. They talk you through everything that is happening along the journey, including the very end when the angels enter the room.”

There are many worthy organizations vying for donations, but Our Lady stands out to Turner. “They provide such a worthy service to our community and I want others to benefit as I have,” he said. “Plus, with their business model relying on donations I know they need it!”

He’s made it a priority to give to OLP – and an easy one to execute. “I give monthly by auto pay, so it’s just baked in.”

Ten years have passed since Irene’s death, and Turner now feels compelled to make a larger donation. “I have been increasing it along the way. I’ve also remembered OLP in my will.”

That decision, he says, just felt right. “The world needs more of the selfless giving of OLP, and we need to support them. Thank you to OLP for years of dedication in helping others in their most difficult hour.”

For his part, Gillet has endured life’s sharpest pains, most notably when his mom died. Cancer seized her quickly. Spending her last few weeks at Our Lady of Peace back in the spring of 2012 was a blessing amid profound grief.

“Having the support OLP provides gave our family the most amount of time with Mom to say our goodbyes,” Gillet said. “Ever since then OLP has been an organization that we all have universally supported. Even though we are all busy with life, the OLP luncheon is one of the occasions every year when I know we will all get together, remember Mom and get caught up.”

Now, his young son has a tangible connection to his late grandma, who died when he was only 2. It was provided by Our Lady.

“Although Charlie doesn’t remember visiting his grandma at OLP, and as much as that makes me sad and I wish it wasn’t the case, I know he will never forget this project. Charlie will always remember making these tables. Having this memory tied to his grandma and OLP is very meaningful to me and makes me very proud of Charlie.”

KIM WEBSTER ASSUMES COO POSITION

EMPLOYEE PROFILE

Kim Webster

Kim Webster wasn't quite ready to retire. And looking back on her four-decade career in the senior health services industry, she can see how all roads lead to Our Lady of Peace Hospice.

Webster worked as a social worker, which provided a foray into hospice care. She went on to work in home care, nursing homes and assisted living and then to serve as a hospice administrator.

Six years ago, her knowledge of hospice became personal: Her beloved husband died from pancreatic cancer. "It brought home how important hospice and end-of-life care are," said Webster, a mother of two and grandma of five from Woodbury.

Three years later, she became a director on the Our Lady of Peace board, applying her considerable expertise and collaborating with other great minds. It was no small job, especially when it came time to re-examine the strategic plan. Webster reflected deeply on Our Lady's mission.

Just as she felt ready to retire from her career, she became intrigued by another option: the addition of Chief Operating Officer at Our Lady to support CEO Joe Stanislav. It felt like a perfect fit. The role drew squarely on professional and personal experience, and she could hit the ground running, given her knowledge as a board member. Being a part-time position allowed time to enjoy retirement time hobbies and family time.

"All the stars aligned," Webster said.

In June, she assumed the position of COO. She looks at operations as a whole to ensure everything is running as smoothly as possible.

"It's the day-to-day activities that are the operating core for success," she said. "It's the glue that holds the bond together." "We hear so often from those we serve that the experience at Our Lady of Peace was amazing and the care and concern of the staff is second to none."

Being detail oriented can reveal a better process. "I enjoy looking at process with the team and how we can continue to grow the Our Lady of Peace Organization. I'm another person that people can refer to."

As COO, Webster also looks ahead. "We look to the future as to what Our Lady will become, maybe expanding our reach."

Collaborating with such a talented staff makes every day rewarding, she said. "I feel so fortunate to be here. Working with Joe and all of the staff is great."

After four decades in senior health services, she appreciates the atmosphere at Our Lady of Peace, which truly sets it apart. "I just feel such a sense of peace here," she said. "We have sisters living and working here. They're so kind and generous with their time. It's that spirit and that feeling of peace."

A FAREWELL PARADE FOR A LONGTIME EMPLOYEE

Leah Isaacson served at Our Lady of Peace for over three decades – 30 years in the kitchen and two years working as an office manager for the community hospice and homecare. She'd been part of something bigger than herself.

"No matter what department they are in, every staff member truly cares about providing the utmost best care to the patients," she said. "They are a fun bunch as well, which definitely helps ease the weight of dealing with death."

It was time now to move on, Isaacson had decided, marking March 31 as her last day. It fell during quarantine, and she assumed it would be an anti-climactic ending to her long OLP career. She was wrong.

When the day came, the staff surprised her with a farewell parade outside her home. First came her boss, Nancy Larson, who dropped off pizza. Then, one by one, a long line of staff members drove by, honking horns, sporting balloons, waving farewell signs and handing out flowers and cards.

"I was shocked," Isaacson said. "I stood at the front of my house and sobbed. I could not believe that all of these individuals took so much of their time to make signs, write cards, buy flowers and make the extra trip over to my house to wish me such a special farewell."

The experience reinforced the love she has always had for her colleagues, she said. "So many of the staff have worked there for many years as well, so we have gotten to know each other on a personal level and have supported each other throughout the years."

To help bridge the gap, staff conducted virtual visits using iPads. Hiskias heard many family members voice their love for the patients, and a surprising number commented on how clean and comfortable they looked. The Our Lady team has always strived to be a stand-in for loved ones. They smile, look family members in the eye and say: "We've got this. You go and get some sleep."

That role took on an added weight when the doors were closed. Staff members kept vigil over their dying patients around the clock, holding their hands, listening to their stories, praying and holding the space. Meanwhile, the hospice teams who go out into the community suddenly faced alarming new risks. They continued to serve all in need, despite grave danger.

Donors stepped up in record number (see page 14), enabling the free hospice to meet the new COVID-related expenses. "We wouldn't have made it through without them," Sweeney said. The hospice re-opened to the public with modified visitation policies in May after eight weeks closed.

As 2020 draws to a close, staff continued to unpack the hard-won lessons of the pandemic. "I learned how vulnerable we are as human beings and how small our world is becoming particularly in public health concerns," Hiskias said.

For Hiskias and his dedicated colleagues, the year's uncertainties have strengthened their desire to make Our Lady a place of peace. As the outside world roiled and everything familiar came to a screeching halt, Our Lady kept quietly humming along, morning after morning. Even though their faces were covered, they smiled with their eyes. They remained steadfast in serving their patients.

That is no small feat, Dr. Pinchback said. "I am proud to be involved with an organization that continues to play a role, not only in providing the best end of life care, but also fulfilling our responsibility to our greater healthcare community during this critical time."

CREATIVE REWORKINGS OF 2020 EVENTS

OUR LADY OF PEACE LUNCHEON & BUTTERFLY RELEASE

Loyalty is a hallmark of Our Lady of Peace donors, and it was on display in an impressive way this year as hundreds of our supporters tuned in for the first-ever online presentations of our annual events, the Friends of Our Lady Luncheon and the Butterfly Release Memorial. Last spring, the venue was set, the menu selected, and invitations had already hit the mail when COVID 19 tightened its grip on the globe and it became clear that holding an indoor event for 500 would be impossible.

Thanks to quick creative thinking from the staff at OLP, and a willingness to try something new on the part of hundreds of donors, the spring Luncheon not only came together, it was a tremendous success. Viewers watched a special video featuring a welcome from Archbishop Bernard Hebda, guest speaker Kristy Boike of Rudolph's Bluebird Houses and a special appearance by Father Jan Michael Joncas performing Shelter Me, a new song he composed in response to the pandemic. More than $94,000 was raised to support our mission of offering end-of-life care at no cost in our hospice home.

Special thanks also to Allegra Printing, Jerry Mertz,

Ostrom Creative, Rudolph's Bluebird Houses, Peggy Lee-Horrigan, The Mustard Seed – Landscaping & Garden Center, Visions Printing, and EditBe, Inc. for all their help in making this year's luncheon a success.

When summer arrived and the coronavirus was still dictating the makeup of social gatherings, the annual Butterfly Release Memorial also went virtual, but with results that were stunning. Once again, our donors came through, giving gifts that to date, total more than three times the amount raised last year by this event. In an era when divisiveness seems to be the norm, bearing witness to this kind of unity as our supporters came together to share their gifts for something they all believe in, was truly heartwarming. We missed seeing everyone in person, but we are deeply grateful for your generosity, flexibility and for that steadfast loyalty that keeps our doors open and our mission vital. Thank you!

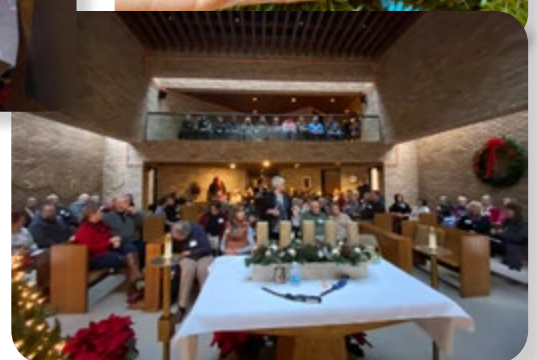

Note: Due to continued uncertainty regarding the impact of Covid-19, we are waiting until after the first of the year to address plans for the 2021 Luncheon. Please watch our website for updates.

HOLIDAY HOPE

CELEBRATION OF LIFE

When we gathered in December 2019 for our annual Celebration of Life, no one could have known that this simple act of coming together as a community would soon seem extraordinary.

Our thanks to all who attended and made for a very memorable end-of-year event.

SURPRISING THE BRIDE-TO-BE

Marking every stage in the circle of life comes naturally to the Our Lady of Peace staff. And during a pandemic, it helps to make the most of the happy ones. That was the thinking behind a surprise bridal shower the staff threw in May for Sarah Morgan, a certified nursing assistant who has worked at Our Lady for five years.

Over that time, Morgan had developed a deep appreciation for OLP. “I love our staff and, together, being able to accompany our residents where fear, grief and sorrow are likely to be present,” she said. “In this we discover a peace, hope, love and even laughter in such an unlikely scenario. It shapes our very hearts to know there can be light in the midst of darkness.”

That close bond among colleagues was on full display when staff members from all departments decided to surprise Morgan with a bridal shower.

“The surprise shower was a gift and a joy that I didn’t realize I needed,” said Morgan, whose wedding planning was upended by COVID-19. “My husband, Robert, and I had grown accustomed to the frequency of changes to our initial wedding plans. The shower was the first time I had a chance to celebrate -- and with others in person, which hadn’t happened due to social distancing and the distance of my family that lives in West Virginia and Ohio.”

She was caught off guard by just how good it felt to celebrate with her colleagues. “Their thoughtfulness, generosity and love filled my heart with so much joy! I was trembling!”

It felt like a powerful antidote to a year of untold challenges. “We work in an environment that is grace filled and, at the same time, we know it includes physical, emotional and spiritual demands daily. With the pandemic and the riots adding more to that, it has been a lot to take in. Their loving surprise gave me permission to celebrate – a gift of pause that lifted my spirit so much!”

Peggy Lee Horrigan went above and beyond to prepare loving details for the shower, Morgan said. “I call her ‘the mom of the home’ for her attention to details -- seasonal decor, inspiring and funny quotes posted around and a thoughtfulness that adds so much.”

Morgan was married on June 12 in her hometown of Huntington, W.V. She returned to work with a grateful heart. “I thank God and our blessed mother, Our Lady, for providing a home of warmth and peace, and for all the staff who are the hands and feet, bringing it alive for all who enter our doors.”

GRATITUDE IN THE TIME OF COVID

BY LISA SWEENEY

*Lisa Sweeney,
Director of Development*

The coronavirus confirmed what I have long known to be true: Our Lady of Peace Hospice has the best donors. It's been a challenging year, but it's also been an inspiring year, giving me the clearest view of your generosity. We couldn't have made it through 2020 without you.

Your donations enabled us to cover many of the costs of Covid-related necessities – expenses we never could have planned for but had to urgently address. It was amazing to see you all come together to hold us up in our time of need: faithful donors giving once again, new donors pouring in and long-ago donors giving again for the first time in years.

You are extending great works of mercy. That's how a longtime donor named Father James Reidy once put it. He's been giving a $50 monthly donation to Our Lady since 1986.

“Spiritual works of mercy and corporal works of mercy happen here,” Father Reidy said. “We can't personally do much of that work, and so we have proxies. We give to places like this so we can help the sick and dying. These good, dedicated people do it for us, and we give them what we can.”

I have a new appreciation of what it takes to sustain a free hospice – and of what makes this one so special. I do not take for granted each hard-earned dollar that comes in.

We are always refining our programming to make it easy to give and to ensure that your money will do the most it can here. For instance, our monthly donor program helps us plan our budget accurately. I would love to set you up with this wonderful program!

I'll never forget this year of unimaginable challenges. Thanks to you, we survived! We have emerged with deeper wrinkles and bigger hearts.

That's been a takeaway from this pandemic: the power of a thankful heart. Gratitude can offset uncertainty, blunting the edges and brightening the view. Gratitude lifts us up and pulls us together -- on the easy days, on the hard days, on the days we need it most.
