80 YEARS OF

Our Lady of Peace

A HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVE ON RECENT CHALLENGES

JOE STANISLAV AND JIM MILLER

Joe Stanislav

We are grateful that Our Lady of Peace has successfully met the challenges of the past two years. This success is not surprising, given our founding during one of our nation’s darkest days, the attack on Pearl Harbor and the onset of World War II in 1941. Even further back, our foundress, Rose Hawthorne, overcame personal tragedy to open a home for poor cancer patients in New York City’s Lower East Side and her successors opened six other Homes including ours in St. Paul. One could say that great challenges push us harder and we persevere.

Jim Miller

While great challenges require great response, we may undervalue the thousands of small challenges our staff and volunteers overcome daily. Our Community and Home Care nurses provide compassionate care to many every day in their homes. Our Block Nurse Program helps many area seniors continue to live independently. Our Residence staff deal with disruptions from ongoing construction and continue Rose Hawthorne’s legacy of compassion to their patients around the clock. These individual acts compound to create innumerable blessings.

We believe our mission was assigned to us by God, and for more than eight decades, our mission has persisted. It is not easy to turn away from Him. We have resisted the temptation to rely on others to do our work, to believe that bigger is better. And so we search out ways to improve, like creating all private rooms and partnering with others to provide for underserved communities.

We know we can count on your continued support, and so we say thank you for yesterday, today and tomorrow.

CELEBRATING THE JOURNEY; HONORING OUR LEGACY

It was an evening of laughter, joy, reminiscing and looking to the future as more than 400 people gathered at Woulfe Alumni Hall on the University of Saint Thomas campus to celebrate the 80th Anniversary of Our Lady of Peace Hospice.

The gala event, chaired by John and Bonnie Treacy, started with a lively social hour followed by dinner and entertainment from comedian Bob Stromberg. Entertainment was also provided throughout the evening by a team of multi-talented priests including Fr. John Forliti at the piano and Fr. John Malone, Fr. Joe Gillespie and Fr. Paul Treacy behind the mics. The highlight of the evening was the surprise announcement of a $100,000 match given by a generous donor in memory of her twin brother.

We are thrilled to report that proceeds exceeded our initial goal and will help restore our much-loved Chapel and provide funding for patient care and general operating expenses. Our thanks to everyone who made this evening so special. We are grateful for your dedication to our mission.

A special thanks to our Event Sponsor, The OAK Foundation.

HOW OUR LADY'S COMMUNITY HOME-HEALTH SERVICES HAVE FLOURISHED

HOME HEALTHCARE

Providing Our Lady of Peace's signature end-of-life care in the comfort of one's home is the aim of its dynamic Community Hospice and Home Health Care program. Once a little-known gem, the program is now 21 years old and growing in recognition across the Twin Cities.

Director Nancy Larson credits her outstanding staff and the efforts of a marketing and community liaison team. "We currently get more than 15 to 20 percent of our new Community Hospice referrals from people who had heard about us from a friend or family member," she said.

The marketing team provides education to various church groups, professional organizations and healthcare providers, emphasizing the various programs that OLP provides. Amassing more than 4,000 Facebook followers has been another way to share information about events and services with the broader community.

Director of Marketing and Communications John Henry Hullsiek led an effort to unify Our Lady of Peace's brand and create a new website. He worked closely with Kathy Wedemeyer, OLP's talented community outreach advocate. "The model was not to be a sales organization and be true to our core values of compassionate care," Hullsiek said. "Our success flows from the bottom to the top with good communication. We seek input from all sectors of our OLP team."

In her outreach, Larson is quick to remind people that hospice care is a benefit that most Medicare and insurances offer – and it can be delivered wherever people call home. They can choose Our Lady of Peace. "Consumers have a voice and choice in selecting their Home Care and Hospice providers, even if their clinic directs their care within a health system," she said.

The feedback she gets on her staff is incredibly positive. "OLP Community Hospice and Home Care staff members are uniformly committed to being patient advocates and helping those we care for identify and reach their goals," Larson said. "They work toward achieving those goals through thoughtful collaboration among their various team members. I appreciate that they are as kind to each other as they are to the patients and families they care for."

She notices this across the staff, which consists of 11 RNs, four full-time social workers, one casual social worker, three full-time chaplains, three casual chaplains, six nurses' aides and a three-person bereavement department. The hospice staff also includes three massage therapists, four music therapists and three healing touch practitioners whose gentle touch bring peace and comfort to those nearing death.

They embrace Our Lady's mission – now 80 years in the making. "Mission-focused work is certainly a contributing factor to our success and helps guide our decisions on a day-to-day basis," Larson said. "I also see our success as coming from our organization's leadership that does not emphasize rapid growth or expansion but rather has the goal of purposeful growth within our capabilities."

MEET THE STAFF

GET TO KNOW THREE AMAZING MEMBERS OF OUR LADY OF PEACE'S COMMUNITY HOSPICE AND HOME HEALTH CARE PROGRAM

Amy Koehler-Killeen, Medical Social Worker/Licensed Independent Clinical Social Worker

Years on staff: 5

What do you enjoy most about the job? I love the variety of work I do. I see patients in the community, help with admissions in the hospice home, and also work in the grief support department. Every day is different. One day I might be meeting families in their own homes, the next I am co-facilitating a support group or coordinating our Teddy Bear program. I truly enjoy meeting people and hearing their stories. End of life is hard and if I can provide emotional support, or help make a caregivers day a little easier, that is so rewarding.

What have you learned on the job? I have learned despite similarities, behind the scenes each family unit is completely unique. I love learning the diverse experiences, challenges and accomplishments that have influenced the family. They all have their own stories and it's important to meet them where they are at.

What advice do you offer to families preparing for the death of a loved one? Accept help and be specific about your needs. Go easy on yourself. No one person can do it all, we are all human, we all do the best with where we are at.

What's your favorite hobby or pastime? Crocheting, reading and camping with my family in our RV!

Brian Kroeger, Chaplain

Years on staff: 3

What do you enjoy most about the job? The people I work with, the patients I get to visit and the wonderful, supportive staff.

What have you learned on the job? I have learned, through firsthand experience, a more nuanced understanding of various religious traditions and how they each utilized unique theological interpretations when trying to make sense of the ineffable.

What advice do you offer to families preparing for the death of a loved one? It's not a one size fits all. It depends on the family and where are they in their grief process. However, if I had to give a pithy answer to this question I'd say, "Death is a reality we all must face; the more we are prepared to accept the reality of it, the more at peace we will be when it comes."

What's the best book you've read this year? "Maus", a graphic novel by Art Spiegelman.

What's your favorite hobby or pastime? I like to build tiny scale models of things and make them look as realistic as I possibly can.

For more about Brian, please turn to page 8.

Vicki Hagen, RN Case Manager

Years on staff: 1

What do you enjoy most about the job? What I enjoy most about my position is building trusting relationships with patients and families.

What have you learned on the job? I feel I continue to learn something new each day. Education from our physicians and pharmacist is invaluable.

What advice do you offer to families preparing for the death of a loved one? Advice I give to families-to cherish the time you have together. Many patients have difficulties sleeping at night, take those special moments/opportunities to talk, share what you are feeling. Always tell your loved one how much they mean to you.

What's your favorite hobby or pastime? Traveling – especially somewhere warm. I also enjoy renovating homes.

SISTERS' CORNER

MEET SISTER METTY

"...whatever you did for the least of these brothers and sisters of mine, you did for me." -Matthew 25:40

I have been serving at Our Lady of Peace Home for 11 years. I belong to the Franciscan Clarist Congregation, which was founded in Kerala, India. Our order follows the examples of Saint Francis and Saint Clare of Assisi by striving to spread the Gospel message through a life of prayer, service and community living. I joined the congregation in 1981 and made it my profession in 1984.

I am from a strong Catholic family. We went to Mass every day and had family prayers in the evening. By seeing Catholic Sisters and spending time with them – many were my cousins – I developed a strong desire to become a nun and felt that God was calling me.

Before coming to the United States, I worked as a nurse – RN/BSN – for 21 years in urgent care, pediatrics, orthopedics, and labor and delivery. I assumed leadership roles as a nursing supervisor.

When I'm not caring for patients, I like to spend time in prayer and silent reflection. I also enjoy gardening.

"I was sick and you cared for me." -Matthew 25:36

When I am working at Our Lady of Peace, this is the Bible verse that leads me every day. I am so happy to work here because I am able to strengthen my faith by participating in Holy Mass and prayers. I can share Jesus' love, care and concern for all people I meet every day, especially the sick and dying.

'LIFE FEELS MORE LIKE A WORK OF ART'

For Chaplain Brian Kroeger, building miniature models is more than a hobby – it's a spiritual exercise.

"My hobby is a meditation on attention to detail," he said. "It's a physical practice that helps me remember the need for slowing down and having a laser-like focus on what I am doing in the present moment."

It's made him a better chaplain. "This translates to the many times when I am sitting with a patient or family member and as they are speaking my thoughts might want to drift off to what I will say in response or a memory of something in my life that is similar to what they are saying, and I am better able to remind myself that I am here now, doing this craft of active listening," he said.

"Painting tiny things serves as a reminder that tiny details can be very important. Additionally, the painting of tiny things often requires more than one layer of paint, and the direction of the brush strokes with each layer is important – it's like sculpting. This correlates with the way a chaplain sculpts dialogue with a patient, saying only what I think the person can tolerate emotionally in this visit and then adding to it in the next visit as needed."

Visually, the choice of paint inspires big-picture reflection. "There is an art of putting darker colors in the recesses, base color on the surfaces and brighter highlights on the edges. This translates into the way we make meaning in our lives. If we can sort the darkness to accentuate the light, life feels more like a work of art, with joy and sorrow coming together to create the final product – something of beauty."

HANDMADE MOCCASINS FOR THE FINAL JOURNEY

PATIENT PROFILE

Mavis Thunder doesn't flinch when she talks about death. There is a peace about her.

Death, she believes, is the next step in her journey. It will happen at the right time, reuniting her with those who have gone before her. This certainty is part of her Ojibwe culture and a reflection of her gentle, intuitive spirituality. While some people spend their final days in agony, she feels her experience has been completely different, thanks largely to the Our Lady of Peace Community Hospice.

"I'm doing it my way," she says.

The 65-year-old was born on the White Earth Reservation in northwestern Minnesota. She split her childhood years between South Minneapolis and the reservation.

The girl with the deep brown eyes had a striking presence, earning her the nickname "Mythical Mavis." There was thunder in her eyes and something other-worldly – a strength and a beauty. Her teachers described her as a leader among her peers.

At times Mavis was subject to discrimination due to her Ojibwe heritage. Her mother, who had endured even more abuses as a child forced to assimilate into white culture, held her ground. She advocated for her family and helped convince voters to support programming for school children. She rallied others and made a difference.

"It's kind of like blowing up a balloon and blowing one breath in it," Mavis says. "Everyone else put their breath in it too."

Along the way, she learned to embrace her heritage. "I feel proud to be Ojibwe. I'm a survivor. My people survived and they made the children stronger by surviving what they had gone through."

Early on, Mavis found an outlet in the arts. She learned to sew by watching her grandma, making star quilts and doll quilts. With five sisters, she quips, there were "a lot of dolls that needed clothes."

For OLP Community Hospice nurse, Janie Sydor, RN (left) time spent caring for patient, Mavis Thunder, was a gift.

She devoted many years to teaching beadwork. She also enjoyed working at a bar. Getting people to open up and learning their stories was endlessly interesting.

'Meant to be friends'

With the bad news that cancer was progressing in her body – cholangiocarcinoma with abdominal metastasis – came some good fortune: Mavis connected with Our Lady of Peace Community Hospice and Home Care. Clinical Nurse Educator Janie Sydor has become her trusted ally, helping her navigate all the trials and triumphs of her final months. Janie helped Mavis return to the reservation to check on her house.

Mavis shared the Anishinaabe custom of making way moccasins, which are handmade by a person nearing death (or someone close to them) and worn only after they die to help them walk the journey home. With a little help from friends, Janie was able to contact an indigenous woman, Deanna, who shared the pattern for the moccasins as well as an offering of soft deer hide. During their time together, Janie was able to help Mavis begin the work on her moccasins.

BUTTERFLY RELEASE

Behind the scenes at Our Lady of Peace, there is always an element of tension surrounding the annual Butterfly Release. Will the weather cooperate?

Last year, the answer was an unequivocal no. With a late afternoon forecast for thunder showers and 60 mph winds, the main event was canceled at noon and OLP staff scrambled to ensure a safe send-off for the monarchs before the storms began brewing. Members from all departments – housekeeping, grounds crew, facility maintenance, nursing, kitchen services and administration – quickly gathered in the courtyard for an impromptu ceremony. This unexpected opportunity to gather as co-workers and focus on the symbolism of the Butterfly Release was a meaningful reminder of what an honor it is to care for patients and their families at the end of life.

For her part, Janie says time spent with Mavis has been a gift. “She’s a really good person. You can just tell her heart.”

Mavis accepts the compliment comfortably. “That’s how I am on the inside. A lot of it has to do with being Ojibwe.” Her response to death is commendable, Janie tells her. “I think you’re a model of being peaceful and accepting.”

Mavis smiles. “I wish everybody could have a Janie and have this hospice. It really helps. I’ve never had cancer before. I’ve seen a lot of people who did and it was pitiful,” she says. “With Janie and hospice, I don’t feel that way at all.”

Then she casts her eyes up at the heavy grey clouds.

“Oh, it’s going to rain, isn’t it?”

As if on cue, rain drops begin to fall. Mavis is ready.

She stands up to head home, pausing at the corner to pet a dog walking by right as she passes.

Once she is inside, the rain stops. It is the lightest of rains, and it is enough.

Editor’s note: Since its inception Our Lady of Peace has embraced all people from all walks of life. Its diversity is part of the very fabric of its being. This was the vision of Rose Hawthorne – a hospice whose Catholic mission recognizes the inherent dignity of all. That tradition continues today. The OLP staff makes a point to honor the faith tradition, background and culture of each patient. This story is one example of how they do that.

CANDLELIGHT CEREMONY

In the stillness of a bitter December night, hundreds of people gathered for a candlelight service to honor the 80th anniversary of Our Lady of Peace. Stars lit up the face of the Home representing thousands of souls cared for at OLP since its founding on December 7, 1941. Music was provided by members of the Minnesota Chorale who sang while guests lit candles of remembrance.

FRIENDS OF OUR LADY LUNCHEON

A garden party on the grounds at Our Lady of Peace marked the 12th annual Friends of Our Lady Luncheon fundraising event. After relying on video presentations to keep our luncheon tradition going strong during the worst of the Covid years, we were determined to gather in person for spring 2022 and heading outdoors was a safe compromise. We were thrilled with the turn-out and thank our loyal donors for hanging in there with us as we found new ways to celebrate.

'HEALING HAPPENS IN THE DIRT'

VOLUNTEER PROFILE

It's 10:45 on a Monday morning, and as operations hum inside Our Lady of Peace, a pair of 83-year-olds are working behind the building, deadheading flowers.

The quiet, sprawling garden – with its dappled sunlight and visiting butterflies – is their happy place, where the Mendota Heights couple dig in and give back. Long before Joanne Hense and Peter Honsa Sr. met, they each had connections to the Catholic hospice. Volunteering here now, together, feels meant to be.

Peter, a father of five, worked as a mortician, which brought him to Our Lady throughout the 1960s. He never forgot the place. "They treat people with such dignity and honesty, openness, from the time they go through the front door," says Peter, who now has 11 grandkids.

An employee's husband spent his last two months at OLP. After two rough months hospitalized, he was lavished with loving care. "They gave him a bath, a haircut, a shave and fresh, clean clothes," he says. "His wife was so amazed."

Meanwhile, Joanne, a mother of four, worked as an RN and learned about OLP through her mother-in-law, who volunteered here. Joanne was inspired to join the cause and began volunteering in the 1990s by helping record patients' stories. "We brought tape recorders," she says. "They would tell their story."

She still remembers a mother of eight who sang into the tape recorder, covering all the bedtime lullabies she'd sung to her children. After her death, OLP gave the tape to her family.

"Everyone has a story," says Joanne, now a great grandmother of four. That belief flows from her Catholic faith and was reinforced by her father. When she shared the set of questions from OLP with him, he used them as a prompt to write an autobiography for his 90th birthday.

Her own story brought tragedy in 2005, when her husband died from a fatal arrhythmia. A year later, Peter was widowed, losing his wife to cancer.

The two widowed Catholics met at a support group and quickly forged a bond. Their last names – Hense and Honsa – even clicked.

"He helped me come out of my shock," Joanne recalls. They've been married nearly 15 years, packing in lots of travel and laughter.

"We've had a lot of joy," Peter says.

An unexpected connection

Soon their paths would return to Our Lady of Peace.

In 2020 Joanne's beloved daughter Lisa died from cancer. She was only 57.

Her friend Tim had supported her in her final weeks, visiting and playing music. One day he showed up at Joanne and Peter's home to share memories of Lisa. He brought a gift for Joanne: a candle from OLP. Tim's wife, it turns out, is Debbie Swanson, the development associate at Our Lady.

Joanne and Peter couldn't believe the connection. They decided to volunteer here, helping in the garden every Monday morning.

It was divinely orchestrated, Joanne says. “I love the garden, and my daughter loved gardening. She always kidded me, ‘You know, Mom, I’m coming back as a pink peony.’ And when I came out to the garden, I saw a pink peony. I feel her spirit here.”

Sinking her fingers into the soil – nurturing life, removing weeds – is “free therapy,” she says. “This is where I come to grieve. This is my grief garden.”

“Healing happens when your hands are in the dirt,” Peter says. And it feels good to add beauty to a space where the family members of OLP patients gather. “It’s a peaceful garden that helps families communicate in a tough time,” he says.

Volunteering here has never felt like a chore, Peter adds. “You really want to see Monday morning come so you can come here.”

“We’re paying it forward,” Joanne says. “What better place to come?”

A shovel a day keeps the doctor away

Peter Honsa’s belief in the therapeutic power of gardening is backed by science.

“Digging in the dirt helps with depression,” says Paul Ruff, a licensed Catholic psychologist who works as director of counseling services at The Seminaries of Saint Paul in St. Paul. “Research shows that. It might be biologically driven. We’re part of a biome, and we want to be in it.”

Nature provides a “restorative relationship,” Ruff says. “We’re meant to be connected with creation in real ways, to feel our sense of creatureliness in a world that’s been created with beauty.”

Gardening is a powerful elixir to modern ills. “Living in an artificial bubble of technology and being indoors all the time is not what we’re made for. It doesn’t allow us to move our bodies the way they’re supposed to move. In the treatment of anxiety and depression, exercise – and particularly exercise outdoors in nature – is one of the go-to interventions for many people.”

THE SECRET TO A LONG LIFE

Joanne and Peter are spritely 83-year-olds – tanned, active, physically fit. They credit their faith, relationships and optimistic dispositions for their longevity.

“Overcoming the challenges of life keeps you young at heart,” Peter says. “You just can’t give up. You have to make lemonade out of lemons.”

Sending five kids to Catholic school meant money was tight, but the Honsa family always made it work.

“Gratitude is part of it,” he says. “This is a tough time for us. We’re seeing many of our friends departing. We just say, ‘Every day is a blessing for us.’”

“That attitude!” Joanne remarks. “I’m so grateful for my life, and my children have just surrounded me. They have accepted Peter. I’ve been very blessed.”

Her faith keeps her going. “You just have to trust that God is with you on your path,” she says. “You’re never alone.”

SAYING GOODBYE TO MY MOTHER

BY LISA SWEENEY

*Lisa Sweeney,
Director of Development*

My mom lived the better part of a century, dying two weeks before her 96th birthday. Still, it is hard to say goodbye. She leaves behind eight children, 22 grandchildren, 27 great grandchildren and countless cherished memories.

Roselyn Schoenecker grew up in New Prague, earned a nursing degree and married her high school sweetheart, Albert Koenig – my dad. They settled on a farm in Jordan and raised nine children.

I'm the second youngest. My memories of our bustling farmhouse are so fond. It was a different time, a simpler time. We didn't have much, but it was more than enough.

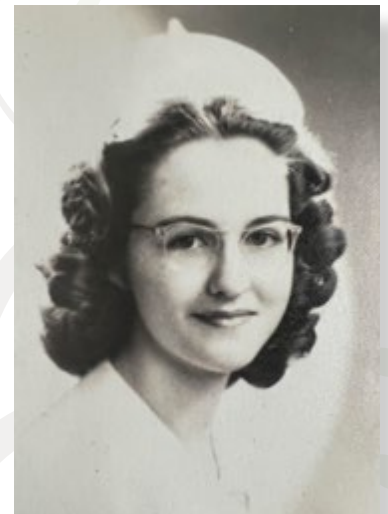

My mom did it all. Her Catholic faith guided her. Prayer was a cornerstone of her busy days. She worked as an RN at Queen of Peace Hospital in New Prague and served in the U.S. Cadet Nurse Corp.

Her abiding love of family shaped her into a historian; a record keeper. Genealogy fascinated her. She wrote a family history book that traces our lineage in detail back to the year 1700. She preserved it for us.

I remember my mom's delight when I told her about my new job at Our Lady of Peace. She was awed by our mission and proud that I could play a role in sustaining it. Getting to tell her about the resounding success of our recent capital campaign and show her pictures of the beautiful new rooms will be a special memory for me.

Since her death, I see our work here in a new light. I appreciate anew how we honor each patient and support every family, bringing love and dignity to the dying process. It is a sacred time.

I'm more dedicated than ever to Our Lady of Peace, and I understand what a privilege it is to be a bridge for kind, generous people looking to support a worthy cause. I want to be a record keeper, a link in our long history.

Roselyn Schoenecker upon her graduation from nursing school.

SUCCESSFUL CAPITAL CAMPAIGN COMPLETED

Construction is underway at Our Lady of Peace with new beautifully remodeled private rooms already available to patients and completion of the full project targeted for spring 2023. We are grateful to the wonderful donors and volunteers who helped us reach our goal for the Support-Strengthen Sustain Capital Campaign. Your generosity is a blessing.

WAYS TO GIVE

SPOTLIGHT ON PLANNED GIVING: LEAVING A LEGACY AND THE IMPACT OF PLANNED GIVING

Hello! My name is Debbie Swanson and as part of OLP's Development Team, I work with donors to create a legacy through Planned Giving. It's one of my favorite things! I love it because it is truly one of the best ways to ensure that our mission continues.

Have you considered including Our Lady of Peace in your will or estate plan? A "legacy gift" or "planned gift" to Our Lady of Peace is a lasting investment in our mission of providing end-of-life care at no cost to patients and families, as we have done for more than 80 years. These types of gifts enable individuals to create a powerful philanthropic legacy. In turn, these gifts help provide long-term sustainability for non-profit organizations like Our Lady of Peace.

A legacy gift is a planned future gift that designates some part of an individual's estate as a donation. Here are a few examples:

- Bequest by Will
- Life Insurance
- Retirement Assets
- Donor Advised Funds

I would love to discuss these, or other possibilities, with you.

For more information about Planned Giving, please visit: ourladyofpeacemn.plannedgiving.org or contact me at debbies@ourladyofpeacemn.org or by calling 651-789-6832.

Warmly,
Debbie

AFTER 30 YEARS, JOE STANISLAV PREPARES TO SAY GOODBYE

After 30 years as president and CEO of Our Lady of Peace Home, Joe Stanislav is preparing to step down. His final day is Dec. 30. He plans to spend more time with his wife, Pam, their three daughters and their 12 grandkids.

What kept you in this job so long?

I never found anything I'd like to do more. I like the challenges, what changes throw at you and how you respond. It helps you grow in faith.

Challenges can look huge sometimes. You let your mind go wild, and, "Oh my gosh, this is Armageddon!"

That's the advantage to being at a place a long time: You learn to be patient and persevere. You see those cycles, and instead of running from the problems, you go through them and face them and realize you've got a really great support group – excellent staff, volunteers, donors, all these folks. It isn't just you, it's everybody. That's what's kept me going for this long.

How did you determine it was time to step down?

I'm still a little ambivalent about leaving. If I was 20 years younger, I could see many great things we could do in the future. I think it's time for somebody else with different ideas, more energy.

What do you consider your biggest contributions to OLP?

The biggest thing is the people I've hired over the years. They've become great managers. That's really gratifying to see, people who have grown into their roles and who bring along other great people. That's what keeps it all going. Not just staff but also the board members that I've helped to recruit. They've steered us through some tough times. It's all about the people.

What has working with death taught you about life?

People fear death because we fear life. We're afraid of the future, of not being adequate.

Up Next: sheetrock. The new patient wing on the south side of the building will be completed shortly after Stanislav's last day at OLP.

I'm always inspired by patients who express that they are content with their lives, they're not afraid of dying, they look forward to heaven. A lot of people are ready to go. They're not anxious about it. They don't think they were inadequate. And they believe that Christ died for us, and that's all that matters. If you have faith, you're not afraid of what comes next.

Do you hope to have that same contentment when your time comes?

Definitely. They're kind of role models, and when you see people like that, you realize they're not really any different than you. They've just learned to live in the moment. They're not anxious about the future, they're not ruminating about the past – they've come to grips with it. That's what you have to do. Hopefully we all have time to do that and the mental capacity.

Do you hear stories from staff about patients who encounter a loved one in heaven as they near death?

Yes. That's what I look forward to too – seeing them again and realizing they're in heaven. What could be better?

A priest once said, “It’s great to have people who are in serious suffering or pain pray for you.” I thought, “Well, we should be praying for them.” But when you think about it: people who are facing those things, they’re coming to holiness, and who better to pray for you?

OLP is known for the way it welcomes new patients – giving them a bath, a shave or shampoo, clipping their nails, putting them in clean clothes. It’s a corporal work of mercy.

If we do anything well, we get people to a point of being symptom free. That’s our goal. One way you do that is psychological, the things that just make you feel better. The [Dominican] Sisters set that example. They’re about the little things. And our long-term staff have passed that along. It’s their legacy: to look at the little things that can bring joy and to help make those end days much happier.

It’s good to see how a family that arrives in turmoil – very demanding or upset about everything – by the end of the day, they’re calm and complimentary. We see that change in them. Their anxiety turns to acceptance and gratitude.

Your retirement times out with the completion – or near completion – of a successful capital campaign and a construction project that will give each patient a private room.

It’s gratifying to know that we give great care and now we’re going to be able to do it in the best setting – and still do it at no cost to the patient – all three of those things. Sometimes two would be great. That feels good.

With retirement quickly approaching, Joe Stanislaw looks forward to spending more time with the people he loves most – his family.

You have a close-up view of generosity in action.

It inspires you. It makes you want to be more generous. It doesn’t matter whether they’re giving six figures or 100 dollars, it’s the attitude that they give it with. They really want to be part of this. Donating is their way of being part of this. It’s not grudging. It’s freely given, with such joy. That’s why I know I’ll always support this place.

What are your retirement plans?

I don’t know. When I have more time to concentrate on it, I’m sure that’ll take care of itself. I hope to travel more, to dodge winter and to be more involved in our church. I’m looking forward to having more time to reflect, more quiet time.

Do you have a favorite prayer?

My wife and I together daily pray the rosary before bed. When we started doing that, it always seemed more like a chore. Now it’s something we look forward to.

One of your daughters has a farm near Little Fork. It sounds like you enjoy your adventures up there.

Pam and I keep a trailer on their property. They’re right along the Little Fork River. We fish, we golf, we take walks. They’ve got four wheelers and snow mobiles. When I go up there, I turn into a kid. I often tell my grandchildren, “Don’t tell Nana about the stuff I do.”

Through the years, the “look” of our Home has changed radically, but our passion for end-of-life care and dedication to that mission never will.

In the 1940’s, Dominican Hawthorne nuns cared for the patients of Our Lady of Good Counsel in large, open wards. Today, thanks to incredible donors who supported our capital campaign, Registered Nurses, like Jessi R. and Jennifer J., are able to care for patients and families at Our Lady of Peace in fully private suites

*Their legacy.
Our empathy.
Your peace of mind.*
